SYNOPSIS

An exiled Libyan doctor visits his homeland and is disappeared by the regime. When he reappears in a Tripoli prison, his English wife and children arrive in Libya to be near him. He is disappeared for a second time. Many years pass without word of him. How does this fractured family fair under the oppression and pervasive surveillance of the Gaddafi tyranny?

The book is dedicated to those who disappeared.

AUTHOR BIO

Nita Nicholson, a graduate in Fine Art at the University of Leeds, taught at the University of Benghazi in the 1970s. Later, she obtained an MA in Applied Linguistics at Birkbeck College London. She turned to writing as a way of reflecting on the long suffering of the Libyan people.
